

GDRC to be partner of Annual Building Resilience Conference

Fri, 14 Nov 2014 12:51:00 GMT

The 5th Annual Building Resilience Conference will be held in Newcastle, Australia hosted by the Centre for Interdisciplinary Built Environment Research in the School of Architecture and Built Environment at the University of Newcastle, Australia. This is the fifth in the Building Resilience conference series and follows on from previous successful events held in 2008, 2011, 2013 and in 2014. GDRC at School, of Art, Design and Architecture will be a key partner of this event and will be collaborating closely with the hosts in making this event a success.

Call for abstracts is now open and academics and practitioners who are interested to submit an abstract can now do so as the conference promises to be exciting and extremely informative building on the four previous conferences in the series.
